DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-4, drawn to scanning evanescent microwave microscope, classified in class 324, subclass 636.
- II. Claims 5 and 6, drawn to method of regulating the distance between a tip of a scanning evanescent electromagnetic wave microscope and a sample, classified in class 324, subclass 635.
- III. Claims 7-52, drawn to method of using a scanning evanescent microwave probe to determine electrical properties of a sample, classified in class 324, subclass 635.

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process such as to determine a variable reactance of a sample.

Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because distance between the probe tip and the sample can be adjusted manually. The subcombination has separate utility such as to determine sample properties.

Art Unit: 2858

Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process such as to determine a variable reactance of a sample.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

If applicant should elect Group II, the applicant is subjected to the following election of species requirement which contains claims directed to the patentably distinct species of claimed invention:

(1) Species of claim 5.

(2) Species of claim 6.

If applicant should elect Group III, the applicant is subjected to the following election of species requirement which contains claims directed to the patentably distinct species of claimed invention:

Art Unit: 2858

(1) Species of claims 7-10.

(2) Species of claims 11-21

(3) Species of claims 22-52

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim appears to be generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

A telephone call was made to the office of John P. O'Banion on 11/19/2001 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.
